A life crisis injury or illness may afford just a window of opportunity for a person to achieve optimal recovery. The process of re-establishing re-connections and regaining independence is greatly enhanced by early and intensive intervention.

The quality of life that follows rehabilitation often rests on how your restorative growth is managed thereafter. Transitioning from a traditional rehabilitative setting into a “real-world” setting is where Natural Settings provides a continuum of care through venture learning.

Venture learning is a concept to involve a person in a hands-on activity to elevate both learning and living skills developing confidence to succeed. We specialize in working with clients transitioning from a life crisis.

Our professional staff is committed to doing all it takes to help individuals with these life changing events regain as much independence as possible in daily living skills and re-entry into the workforce.
